

Governance Update

Hi, I am Jessica Rannow, FY17 President of the Society of Women Engineers,

I would like to take a few moments and voice my support for the governance update initiative SWE is currently undertaking.

As I look towards the beginning of my presidency I am filled with excitement and anticipation of an amazing time for SWE.

This governance update will allow myself and our other tremendous volunteer leaders serve SWE's greater membership to our fullest capacity.

Being a leader in SWE has meant so much to me and my career, and I want nothing but the best opportunities for our future leaders as well.

It is important that as a member you are aware of the changes to come and understand how they will support our continued growth as the leading advocacy organization for women in engineering

You will be hearing from a few SWE leaders regarding this governance update over the course of the next several month, and I want to add my voice of support for what we are trying to accomplish.

Please make sure that you take time to visit governance.swe.org for updates and information about the governance update and please reach out with any questions to governance@swe.org
