Instagram Challenge

Take this month's #SWENextInstagramChallenge for a chance to be featured on Society of Women Engineers public Instagram page: @SWEtalk!

We want to make sure you know all there is to know about the various engineering disciplines. All you need to do is post three interesting facts about the environmental engineering discipline with a picture that properly represents the field. And, make sure to use the hashtag #SWENextInstagramChallenge in the post so SWE can track it! The person with the most interesting three facts and most creative picture will win!

Winners will be chosen on Monday, May 30 at noon CDT. Participants must include the challenge hashtag in order to be entered.*

Engineering for You Video Contest

Most of humankind's biggest endeavors depend on engineering to create solutions that span disciplines, geographies, and cultural boundaries. Engineering For You launched a video contest for students that's focused on Mega-Engineering, which has projects that address important needs of large populations in our communities. To enter, you'll need to create a short video and the winner could be awarded the top prize of $25,000! Check out the website to learn more about the contest rules.

Become a Guest Blogger for All Together

Megha Bharadwaj is a SWENext who will be blogging over the next few months about her experience of hosting a STEM career night for young girls. You can follow along on her journey on SWE's All Together Blog and be sure to check out her first post! If you have a newsworthy STEM story to share on our blog, please send an email to lucy.toman@swe.org.

Shout-out to SWENext Clubs

Congratulations to the newly formed SWENext clubs at the following schools: University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth, Da Vinci Science High School, Hewitt Trussville High School, and Bishop Eustace Preparatory School!

If your school has already started a SWENext Club but you aren't officially registered with us, please visit here to register your club today. We want to make sure you get to take advantage of all the benefits as a SWENext Club.

*Instagram Contest terms and conditions:

1. Must post interesting facts and picture to Instagram.
2. Use the following caption, at the bottom of your Instagram post, in addition to your own explanation: Competing in the #SWENextChallenge for 5/13-5/29 with @SWEtalk.
